the bus window
framed a dozen shots
as it returned with you

and you knew even then there would be more shots some right then, others later

some you would frame some you would only hear of but all of this town
with these people

the ground is firm now under your feet

beneath you and above you there's green and yellow

but broken regularly by unnatural colors

in an academic effort to disguise the old swamp

maybe you're alone
in the dark
in the chill
under the arch

it's a different kind of world now the silhouettes of the buildings against where the sun was globes of light sit above circles of white concrete others rush by in pairs or by themselves

gleaming rectangles and sounds behind

© 1968 G.J.S.

that Sunday it was white and there was much to plow through before breakfast the branches looked through it in their strange wrappings and you in your parka

plodded back over more footprints than before
as the campus woke up

the Arranger
 flushes out colors
 of the most delicious sort pauses
 with the delight of any creator and then remembering sets about capturing other things to be ordered

we are here
in these buildings
with these people
nine months
back there only three

that makes all the difference the studies

hold up for a long time (learning and labor 17)

later you look for relief with the same quiet (organizations and activities 37)

or with an occasional clatter (mock convention 65)

maybe you explode (sports 69)

sometimes you get out of yourself (performing arts 89)

but you always return to that pervading element (people 107)

and once a year
find it neatly classified (directory 197)

in a narrow booth (Philosophy 16)
at the snackbar (Theory of Knowledge)
we wait for our eleven o'clocks (Second Semester)
and over coffee (Three hours)
talk of unimportant things (Prerequisite: Philosophy 1, 2, 3, 5, 9, or 10) and of you and me (Given in alternate years only)

3 hearts
11:50 generates an interminable line 4 clubs
that shuffles 4 hearts
past you 5 clubs
slowly 5 hearts
changing 6 clubs
its character 6 hearts
until 7 clubs
it 7 hearts
disappears
7 no

the light powder
left us a new medium;
we worked with it
diligently

later, it changed—
a wet, white,
heavy wonder
made for snowballs

soon, ice
hard, blue
that gave us something to slip over the Eskimos have seven words for snow we use adjectives

cooks
offered
openings presently

how would you like a peanut-butter & jelly sandwich right now?

crackpots
outside Oberlin
preferred

after a while it gets earlier thoughts of morning classes are going orange dots break the dark we can only feel the cloud they fill between us too tired to leave

we keep talking

too exhausted to say nothing
we keep talking

we've been waiting for this chance and the night will go while we take it you find yourself with yourself in the sunlight at first your eyes pick up (the breeze moves the ivy across Peters)

then your ears (one child calls another across the Square) but soon your open eyes see nothing and your ears hear silence

(sights and sounds are stopped as easily as senses) the breeze and the children are gone and you're left with nothing but you

and us
